LITERARY NOTICE.

TO MY PATRONS AND THE PUBLIC.

HAVING been appointed Deputy Surveyor, in and for the District composed of the county of Allegheny, I deem it necessary to announce, that my SEMINARY for young Ladies and Gentlemen, will be continued as usual, at my residence, No. 84 Fourth street, a few doors from Doctor Dawson's Chemical Warehouse, that the school will be principally conducted and superintended by me, and also that, when called on business, it will be conducted by my Assistant, who must be an able and judicious Instructer. In the Institution will be taught the following branches, which constitute a liberal and scientific education, viz: Penmanship, English Grammar, Geography, with its application to Astronomy, Mapping, &c. and Mercantile transactions in general, together with the Mathematics.

In relation to the course of instruction, particular attention will be paid to the most essential department of education, not only in teaching the most concise and approved methods of Arithmetical Calculation, and of arranging and keeping accounts in trade and commerce, but also in explaining these methods, that the pupil may know how to proceed by reason as well as by rule; for without this, no permanent benefits can be derived.

Having recently purchased a handsome pair of Globes, students will derive a peculiar advantage, in acquiring a sound knowledge of Geography, Practical Astronomy, and the use of the Globes. Students at the study of Surveying, will also have an excellent opportunity afforded them, in acquiring a radical knowlege of the Theory and Practice of that invaluable ART.

Keerl's Rheumatic Plaster,

For Rheumatism, Sprains, Pains in the Breast and Back, &c. &c. &c.

PREPARED only by the subscriber, who, from many years' experience, can confidently recommend it as an excellent remedy for Rheumatism, having frequently had occasion to use it in his own family, and has recommended it to many others, who were afflicted with that painful disease, and is not aware of its having failed in giving relief in a single instance. It has also proved efficacious in Sprains, Pains in the Breast and Back, and Debility and Pains of the Limbs, consequent on injuries, as Fractures, Contusions, &c.

GEO. H. KEERL.

CERTIFICATES.

I have known the Rheumatic Plaster, prepared by Mr. George H. Keerl, applied with prompt and perfect relief, in some cases of severe Rheumatic Pain. THOMAS H. WRIGHT, M. D.

February 12, 1829.

Mr. George H. Keerl:

DEAR SIR—You request my opinion of your Plaster Composition, which you state has been highly beneficial in the relief of Rheumatism. If its application be restricted to the chronic form of that affection, I have not the least doubt of its efficacy. Its operation is that of a gentle stimulant, maintaining an equality of temperature in the part to which it is applied, and at the same time keeping the surface soft and perspirable. Compositions possessing similar properties, have long been esteemed by medical men. I know of none better suited to that end, than the one which you have exhibited to me. JOHN BUCKLER, M. D.

February 13, 1829.

Being violently attacked with Rheumatism, about five years ago, and the pain in my breast very severe, I was induced to try Mr. Keerl's Rheumatic Plaster, when one application afforded me perfect relief. J. H. POOR.

Baltimore, February 14, 1829.

Last winter I labored under a painful attack of Rheumatism, which lasted for some time. On application to Mr. George H. Keerl, I obtained his Rheumatic Plaster, which relieved me entirely from pain, soon after its application. JOHN H. NAFF.

Poetry.

FORGET ME NOT.

[The beautiful little flower commonly called 'Forget Me Not,' blooms in luxuriant profusion on the graves of the heroes of Waterloo. But the sentiment of the following stanzas is more directly applicable to the patriots who fell in the American revolution, than to any and all other heroes.—Cincinnati paper.]

Amid the fallen warriors' tombs,
Where heroes' ashes rot,
A lovely little flower there blooms—
The sweet "Forget Me Not;"
It fair and beautiful appears,
Tho' sow'd mid carnage, groans and tears.

There are whose mould'ring ashes lie
Where banners proudly sweep,
Where gilded 'scutcheons mark the eye,
And marble statues weep;
Oh! there is grief enough in stone,
But hearts that burst with sorrow—none

More holy far than those, the spot
Where rest the warriors' bones;
Though marble statues mark it not,
Nor monumental stones;
There needs no sculptured pile to tell
Where those who bled for freedom fell.

Oh! no—beneath her silent pall,
Should dark oblivion hide
The fond remembrance of all
We hold most dear beside?
The flowers upon their graves forbid
That their remembrance should be hid.

Their flowery epitaph is writ
Where Nature's footsteps tread;
'Twas freedom's self indicted it,
Above the deathless dead;
And you may read upon the spot—
"Forget me not—Forget me not."

I ask no more—unstrung and broken
My feeble lyre—I crave
Of tender grief this one sweet token,
These lovely flowers may appear,
Planted by those who loved me here.

From the Iris.

ONCE 'TWAS MY HOPE.

By Thomas H. Bayley, Esq.

Once 'twas my hope, upon this spot
A tender flower to raise:
I thought its bloom would be my pride
Through many summer days:
But ere the sunbeam'd smile had lured
Its perfect fragrance forth,
Its soft leaves, severed from the stem,
Lay trampled on the earth!

I sorrowed all the winter time,
And bitter tears I shed;
When spring returned it found me still
A mourner o'er the dead:
But soon I saw the plant arise,
And spurn its earthly tomb,
More beautiful than when I nursed
Its infancy of bloom!

That lesson in my memory
I'll treasure up with care;
I will not sorrow for the dead,
With impious, mad despair:
I know hereafter they'll shake off
This perishable earth,
And boast an immortality
Of beauty and of worth!

BEAUTY.

What is beauty? Not the show
Of shapely limbs and features! No.
These are but flowers,
That have their dated hours,
To breathe their momentary sweets, then go.
'Tis the stainless snow within,
That outshines the fairest skin.

Female Stratagem.—Of all stratagems resorted to by female ingenuity to obtain a suitable husband, we know of none so extraordinary as that of the French lady, who gave out that her head resembled a "Death's Head." Among the numerous lovers, who, in consequence of the immense wealth she was reputed to possess, aspired to the honor of her hand, in spite of the terrors of her face, there was reckoned no less than 519 reformed rakes, and 200 ruined gamesters. She showed to a person who was in her confidence, twenty-five or thirty letters which she had received from Belgium, written by certain well known characters, who said that they would never revolt, though she should prove to be the most hideous object in the world. They were disposed to flatter, caress, and wed the plague itself, so they could procure abundance of gold. All the letters she left unanswered: but to a few she was generous enough to order her secretary to return thanks. Her friends were permitted to take a copy of the following:—

"Madam—Report has doubtless painted you less handsome than you are; but none, at least, will refuse to admit that your physiognomy is expressive. I should have had the honor of presenting myself before you and declaring my passion, had not pitiless creditors detained me in the Conciergerie, I must beg that you will have the goodness to pay me a visit, to receive the proposition I am so anxious to make. Though you may have shown a little of the coquette, in order to set yourself off to the best advantage, that is not the fault of nature; consequently it can make no kind of difference in my intentions. No aspect can be more hideous in the eyes of a prisoner, than his prison. Bring me liberty, and you will appear charming indeed. If you should favor me with a visit, you will see a young man twenty-five years of age, who has, among other advantages, a tolerable person, with a mind proper to meet wordly success. He has moreover the honor to declare his ardent vows.

Folleville.

"P. S.—Be so good as to request the gaoler of the Conciergerie to lend his parlor for the interview."

The mind of the young lady did not tend to a union, in consequence of the above invitation: yet her heart was not insensible. In the brilliant circle in which she moved, covered constantly with a mask, she distinguished a young man of noble and interesting countenance, whose mind had been well cultivated. He had a fortune which placed him above interested views. The young man, on his part, was so much charmed with the graces and delicate sentiments the young lady with invisible features displayed in her conversation, that he at length declared all his happiness depended on a union. She did not deny the impression he had made on her heart, nor conceal the pleasure she would feel in acceding to his proposal, but expressed to him, at the same time, the dread that he would repent on beholding her face: which she described to be that of death in its most terrific form. She begged him to beware of rashness, and consider well, whether he could bear the disappointment he might incur.

"Well, well," said the young man, "accept my hand, and never unmask but to the eye of your husband." "I consent," replied she; "I shall not survive the appearance of affright and disgust, and perhaps contempt, you may feel after marriage." "I will not shrink from the proof: it is your heart, and not your figure, that I love." "In eight days," said the lady, "you shall be satisfied." They prepared for the marriage, and, notwithstanding the refusal of the generous young man to accept a million in bank bills, she settled all her property on him. "If you have not courage enough to suffer," said she, "for your companion, I shall at least be consoled by the reflection, that I have enriched him whom I love, and he will perhaps drop a tear to my memory." Returning from the altar, she threw herself on her knees before her spouse, and placed her hand on her mask. What a situation for the husband! His heart palpitated, his face turned pale, the mask fell, and he beheld an angel of beauty! She then exclaimed affectionately, you have not deserved deformity—you merit the love of beauty! The happy couple left Paris the next day for Livonia, where the great property of the lady was situated.—N. Y. Cabinet.

Ages of the European Sovereigns.—An English paper has the following paragraph in relation to the ages of the principal sovereigns of Europe, from which some estimate may be formed of the probable continuance of the respective reigns.—Baltimore American.

The oldest is Charles X. of France, who is 73 years of age, tall in person, and very hale and strong; he hunts and rides constantly, and is much in public. The Pope Pius VIII. is 68, and in tolerable vigor. The Church is usually considered favorable to longevity. The next is George IV. who is 67, and has long been a martyr to the gout, and is lately said to have lost the sight of an eye. His Majesty is naturally of a strong constitution: the rarity of his appearance in public arises from the debility left by the gout, which, as his Majesty is unusually corpulent, renders walking a painful exertion. Bernadotte, King of Sweden, is 66, and has recently had a severe illness, but is a strong and healthy man. Felix, King of Sardinia, is 65; and Frederick VI. of Denmark, 92, both in good health. Frederick William III. King of Prussia, is in his 66th year. William I. of the Netherlands, is 58; he has the appearance of a weather-beaten soldier, as he is, and though subject to chronic complaints, is robust. Francis, Emperor of Austria, is 52, and healthy. Francis, King of Naples, is 51, and gouty. Mahmoud II. Sultan of Turkey, is 46, and possessed of great vigor of body and mind. The Turks, however, grow old prematurely, and Mahmoud may be therefore reckoned as 60 years old at least. His countenance and his eye are particularly striking and impressive, and he is naturally a very superior man, having alone been the means of causing extraordinary changes in the Turkish system. Ferdinand VII. of Spain, is 45 years old, and has long been a prey to disease, partly constitutional and partly the effect of debauchery. He has the gout constantly, and is incapable of much active exertion; he has however lately married his third queen. His character is said to afford an unfavorable specimen of the Bourbon race. Louis, King of Bavaria, is in his 45th year, and has suffered from licentious pleasure, and is now recovered from an illness. Tho' his gallantry has been excessive, his merits as a sovereign and a man of letters, are acknowledged to be very high; and he has, perhaps justly, been styled the most enlightened king in Europe. He passed many years in study, and his mind is of an enlarged and liberal cast. The publication of a volume of poems has lately obtained him much fame as an author, in addition to that derived from the wisdom of his government, and the longer he reigns the better for his country. Nicholas I. Emperor of Russia, is 34; is tall and handsome in appearance, hardy and active, and accustomed to laborious exertions. He has lately had a dangerous illness, from which he is now quite recovered.—The youngest, and only female sovereign, is Donna Maria da Gloria, the legitimate Queen of Portugal, (Don Miguel not having yet been recognised,) who is in her 13th year. She promises to be very beautiful, but her health is very delicate, and she is so lame as to be obliged to use crutches.—She is now at Rio Janeiro, with her father, the Emperor of Brazil. With the exception of the petty German and Italian states, the above will give a notion of the probability of the length of the reigns of the present European Sovereigns.

From the Medical Intelligencer.

Qualities of Vegetable Food, commonly used in diet.

Bread—At the head of the vegetable class, stands bread, that article, which, from general use, has received the name of the staff of life. Wheat is the grain chiefly used for the purpose, and is among the most nutritive of all the farinaceous kinds, as it contains a great deal of starch. Bread is very properly eaten with animal food, to correct the disposition to putrescency; but is most expedient with such articles of diet as contain much nourishment in small bulk, because it then serves to give the stomach a proper degree of expansion. But as it produces slimy chyle, and disposes to costiveness, it ought not to be eaten in a large quantity. To render bread easy of digestion, it ought to be well fermented and baked; and it never should be used till it has stood twenty-four hours after being taken out of the oven, otherwise it is apt to occasion various complaints in those who have weak stomachs; such as flatulence, heart-burn, watchfulness, and the like. The custom of eating butter with bread hot from the oven, is compatible only with very strong digestive powers.

Pastry, especially when hot, has all the disadvantages of hot bread and butter, and even buttered toast, though the bread be stale, is scarcely inferior in its effects on a weak stomach. Dry toast, with butter, is by far the wholesomest breakfast. Brown wheaten bread, in which there is a good deal of rye, though not so nourishing as that made of fine flour, is both palatable and wholesome, but apt to become sour on weak stomachs.

Oats, Barley and Rice.—Oats, when deprived of the husk, and particularly barley, when properly prepared, are each of them softening, and afford wholesome and cooling nourishment. Rice likewise contains a nutritious mucilage, and is less used than it deserves, both on account of its wholesomeness, and economical utility. The notion of its being hurtful to the sight, is a vulgar error. In some constitutions it tends to induce costiveness; but this seems to be owing chiefly to flatulence, and may be corrected by the addition of some spice, such as caraways, anise-seed, and the like.

Potatoes are agreeable and wholesome food, and yield nearly as much nourishment as any of the roots used in diet. The farinaceous or mealy kind is in general easiest of digestion and they are much improved by being toasted or baked. They ought almost always to be eaten with meat, and never without salt. The salt should be boiled with them.

Green Peas and Beans, boiled in their fresh state, are both agreeable to the taste and wholesome; being neither so flatulent, nor so difficult of digestion, as in their ripe state; in which they resemble the other legu.inous vegetables. French beans possess much the same qualities, but yield a more watery juice, and have a great disposition to produce flatulence. They should be eaten with spice.

Salads, being eaten raw, require good digestive powers, especially those of the cooling kind: and the addition of oil and vinegar, though qualified with mustard, hardly renders the free use of them consistent with a weak stomach.

Onions, Garlic, and Shallot, are all of a stimulating nature, by which they assist digestion, dissolve humors, and expel flatulency. They are, however, most suitable to persons of a cold and phlegmatic constitution.

Radishes, of all kinds, particularly the horse radish, agree with the preceding articles in powerfully dissolving slimy humors. They excite the discharge of air lodging in the stomach.

Turnips are a nutritious article of vegetable food, but not very easy of digestion, and are flatulent. This effect is in a good measure obviated by pressing the water out of them before they are eaten.

Apples are a wholesome vegetable aliment, and in many cases medicinal, particularly in diseases of the breast, and complaints arising from phlegm. But, in general, they agree best with the stomach when eaten roasted or boiled. The more aromatic kinds of apples are fittest for eating raw.

Cabbages are some of the most conspicuous plants in the garden. They do not afford much nourishment, but are an agreeable addition to animal food, and not quite so flatulent as the common greens. They are likewise diuretic, and somewhat laxative. Cabbage has a stronger tendency to putrefaction than most other vegetable substances: and during its putrefying state sends forth an offensive smell much resembling that of putrefying animal bodies. So far, however, from promoting a putrid disposition in the human body, it is, on the contrary, a wholesome aliment in the true putrid scurvy.

Carrots contain a considerable quantity of nutritious juice, but are among the most flatulent of vegetable productions.

From the Detroit Journal.

Indian War.—A letter from a gentleman at Green Bay, of the 8th of June, gives some account of the recent rencontres between certain of the Indian tribes, which we are permitted to publish.

"I returned about ten days since from Prairie des Chiens; while there, a battle was fought between a party of the Menomonee and Sioux tribes of Indians, and a party of the Sacs and Foxes.—These tribes have been at war during the winter. Two days after my arrival at the Prairie, a band of the Sioux, 48 in number, came to that place, and was joined by about 40 Menomonees. They danced the war dance, and proceeded down the Mississippi about four miles and encamped; the next evening, they proceeded to attack the Fox village, situated at Debuke's mines. Soon after their departure, they discovered a party of Foxes on shore; they attacked them by surprise, and killed or wounded all but three of the seventeen, of which number the party consisted; of the Sioux one was killed, and three wounded, one of whom died next day. The attacking party returned to the Prairie the same night, singing and firing about three hundred guns in celebration of their victory. The next day they danced the scalp dance, and displayed an appalling spectacle of scalps, hands, fingers, and skin, taken from the bodies of their enemies. The heart of the Fox Chief was roasted, and a part eaten by these savages. The party of the Sacs and Foxes consisted of some of the chiefs and principal men of the nation, who were going to the Prairie to offer the pipe of peace to the Menomonees and Winnebagoes. Their loss is severely felt: but as they and their tribes were the first aggressors in the war, they receive but little sympathy. Efficient measures have been taken by the government for the prevention of further bloodshed among the tribes. You have of course heard that a Treaty will be held at the Prairie for the settlement of the troubles: this is the only measure which can restore peace, and perhaps prevent the extermination of the several tribes."

Indian Revenge.—The letter, from which the preceding article is taken, contains a narrative of an occurrence, the offenders in which will be tried at the Court now in session at Green Bay.

"Three Indians are confined here for murder. It appears that one evening last week, a young man, a half breed, went in a canoe up Devil river to hunt deer; about midnight, in rounding a bend of the river, he saw what he supposed to be a deer, near the bank, fired, and killed it; he immediately went to the spot, and discovered that he had shot an Indian, who went out on a similar expedition. He took the body into his own canoe, and returned to the settlement here, about six miles from the place where the accident happened. He arrived just before day-break, and proceeded to the lodge of a Menomonee Chief named Ashkosh, (or the brave) to which the deceased had belonged. He was met by the chief and two other Indians near the beach. Before he had completed the narration of what had happened, Ashkosh caught him by the wrist, drew his knife, and stabbed him in the breast. He then dragged him to the water, and, with the other two, instantly despatched him. They gave him nine wounds, any one of which would have proved fatal; he was literally butchered.

Ashkosh is a young man, and one of the principal chiefs of the Menomonee tribe; the other two are young men. The act was committed in the middle of the settlement, and in the face of the civil authority. If Indians are suffered by our civil authority to come into the towns and settlements of the whites, and there avenge, in their own fashion, their real or supposed injuries upon their own people or our citizens, it is time for each man to look to his own safety. The killing of the Indian by the young man was accidental; had it been committed by one of our best citizens, his fate would, no doubt, have been the same."

Foreign News.

FROM EUROPE.—In a hasty postscript last evening, we stated the substance of the latest intelligence from Europe, the dissolution of the French Chambers, the final embarkation of all the expedition, destined to Algiers, and the reviving health of the King of England. We now annex the details of these events, which may all be justly styled important.

Of the first, the dissolution of the Chambers, the consequences may be very grave indeed. Prorogued originally for having declared to the King that there was incompatibility between his ministry, as then and now composed, and the representatives of the people, the popular chamber is now dissolved, in the hope of obtaining, by new elections, a more friendly or a more complaisant body. The experiment is certainly one of doubt, and, we should think, of hazard: for notwithstanding the very limited number of electors or persons entitled to vote, in France, (about 100,000, in a population of thirty millions,) and the consequently greater facility of tampering with their consciences, there is so much vigor, talent and freedom in the French press, and so great an advance has been made by the men of the present generation, in the knowledge and just appreciation both of their rights and of their duties, that we should, at this distance, deem it impossible that a cabinet headed by M. de Polignac, and of which the deserter Bourmont is a member, could obtain a majority in an elective House. If this be so, then, when the two Houses meet again in August, the position of the ministry will be worse than before; and the monarch must give way, or revolution may again unfurl its banners. The very hesitation of the ministry in adopting the step they have at length taken, indicates their own doubts as to its issue: and nothing, we apprehend, but a brilliant coup de main in Africa can save them. If the expedition for Algiers sailed soon after the 16th, and no unforeseen obstruction from the elements occur to arrest its progress, and no very powerful or effective resistance on the part of the Algerines, there would be time enough, before the new election, to hear of some result. We hope the expedition may be successful: but we hope, too, even more ardently, that the new elections may not sustain the Polignac Ministry.

How far the English or even the Russians may approve the establishment by France of a colony, where Algiers is, or was, seems doubtful. A London letter published in the Augsburgh Gazette, which will be found among our extracts, would seem to indicate some jealousies on the part of both these powers. These, however, can, we should think, hardly deter France from availing herself of the fruits of the victory she has made such efforts, and incurred such expenses to secure. If the whole expedition is to be a mere coup d'etat to operate upon the elections at home, without reference to permanent advantages, it must eventually work the downfall of its projectors.

The health of the King of England, notwithstanding the apprehensions almost unanimously expressed by the London press, only three days before the latest dates were received of his approaching death, seems to be certainly and materially improving. Sincerer vows than those made for the prolonged life of this monarch, have seldom, we are persuaded, been expressed in behalf of any sovereign.—N. Y. American.

LATE FROM EUROPE.

By the packet ship Pacific, Capt. Crocker, arrived at New York, Liverpool papers to the 20th, and London to the 19th ult. have been received.

EXPRESS FROM PARIS.

We have just received by an extraordinary express from Paris, the Moniteur and other Paris journals of Monday, May 17, and the Gazette de France, dated Tuesday, May 18.

The official part of the Moniteur contains a Royal Ordinance to the following effect.—

Charles, &c. We have ordained as follows:—

Art. 1. The Chamber of Deputies is dissolved.

Art. 2. The Electoral Colleges are convoked in the whole kingdom. Those of the arrondissements, and those of the departments which have but one College, for the 23d June, 1830; the Department Colleges for the 3d of July; and the College of the Department of Corsica for the 20th July.

Art. 3. Conformably to Article 6 of the law of 2d May, 1827, and Article 22d of the law of 2d July, 1828, the Prefects shall publish the present Ordinance immediately after receiving it. They shall open the register of reclamations, shall cause the electoral list to be again posted up, and shall publish the table of corrections within the time prescribed by the law of the 2d July, 1828.

Art. 4. The operations of the Electoral Colleges shall proceed as regulated by the Royal Ordinance of the 11th Oct. 1820.

Art. 5. The Chamber of Peers, and the Chamber of the Deputies of the Department, are convoked for the 3d of August next.

Art. 6. The present Ordinance shall be in force in the Departments from the day on which it shall have been registered at the Prefecture, conformably to article 4 of the Royal Ordinance of 27th Nov. 1826.

Art. 7. Our Minister Secretary of State for the Home Department is charged with the execution of the present Ordinance, which will be inserted in the Bulletin of the Laws.

Given at our Palace, St. Cloud, the 16th of May, of the year 1830, and the 6th year of our reign.

By the King. (Signed) Charles.

The Minister Secretary of State for the Home Department. Montbel.

Non-Official Part.

Paris, May 16.—On the 16th in the morning, the whole army of the expedition was embarked. It was with cries a thousand times repeated, of 'Vive le Roi!' and amidst marks of general enthusiasm, that all the troops effected their embarkation in the most perfect order.

ORDER OF THE DAY.

Toulon, May 10.

"Soldier!—The insults offered to the French flag call you beyond the seas. It is to revenge it, that, on the signal given from the throne, you have all been eager to run to arms, and that many of you have joyfully quitted your homes.

"On several occasions the French standards have been displayed on the African shore. The beat of the climate, the fatigue of the marches, the privations of the desert—nothing, in short, was able to shake the resolution of your predecessors. Their calm courage sufficed to repulse the tumultuous attacks of a brave but undisciplined cavalry. You will follow their glorious example.

"The civilized nations of the two worlds have their eyes fixed upon you. Their good wishes accompany you. The cause of France is that of humanity; show yourself worthy of your noble mission. Let no excess tarnish the splendor of your exploits; terrible in the battle, be just and humane after victory. Your interest prescribes this as well as your duty.

"Too long oppressed by a rapacious and cruel soldiery, the Arab will behold in us his deliverers. He will implore our alliance—encouraged by your good faith, he will bring to our camps the produce of his soil. Thus, by rendering the war less tedious and less sanguinary, you will accomplish the wishes of a Sovereign, who is as sparing of the blood of his subjects as jealous of the honor of France.

"Soldiers! an august Prince has just passed through your ranks. He has deigned to convince you that nothing had been neglected to provide for your wants. His constant solicitude will accompany you in the inhospitable countries where you are going to combat. You will render yourselves worthy of it by observing that strict discipline, which obtained for the army that he led to victory, the esteem of Spain and that of all Europe.

"The Lieutenant-General, Peer of France, Commander-in-Chief of the Army in the expedition to Africa, "Count de Bourmont."

From the Paris Constitutionnel.

Paris, May 16.—We are assured that the ordinance for the dissolution was signed to-day at St. Cloud, and will be published to-morrow. There is more talk than ever of a royal proclamation addressed to the electors, who are convoked for the 25th of June.

It appears that a choice of the Ministerial candidates, who were to preside in the Electoral Colleges, is not yet determined upon.

The Journal des Debats contains an article of two columns on the expedition against Algiers.—While it expresses its wishes for the success of the army, it endeavors to prove that the expedition is not justified by its origin or its supposed objects, and in short, that no good is likely to result from it.

The Court of Assize has condemned the Abbe Frailay, as guilty of an attempt to murder, to hard labor for life, to stand in the pillory, and to be branded.

The trial of Bouquet is not yet finished. Madame Bouquet has been examined, and her testimony has been entirely in favor of her husband. It is supposed that the pleading would not be concluded till late on Tuesday night.

From the Allgemeine Zeitung, of May 13.

Corfu, April 23.—The latest advices from Constantinople confirm the statement of important movements in the arsenal. Thirty ships of the line and frigates are getting ready for sea, and numerous sailors of Hydra, Spezzia, and Ipsara, who are in the capital, are enlisted with very good pay.

London, May 19.—The King's health, we are happy to inform our readers, continues to improve. The bulletin of yesterday was more decidedly favorable than any preceding one: it is stated that his Majesty passed a tranquil night, and that all his symptoms were alleviated. In addition to this gratifying intelligence, it will be seen that our Windsor Correspondent enables us to inform the public, that, up to four o'clock yesterday, his Majesty's health was rapidly improving, and that Sir M. Tierney, directly after signing the bulletins, left the Castle for London, and was not expected to return last night.

Copenhagen, May 11.—Major General and Chamberlain Von Scholten, who is gone to Washington, is commissioned to open negotiations with the Government of the United States of North America, for the purpose of obtaining some changes and modifications in the American Tariff, which are important to the trade and navigation of his Majesty's subjects, especially those in the colonies.

The Morning Chronicle of the 17th says, "The American Minister has had several conferences lately with the Earl of Aberdeen, respecting important commercial relations between the U. States and this country, the West Indies, &c."

France and Algiers.—At a dinner given lately at Marseilles to the Commander, Bourmont, he declared that it was the intention of France "to take possession of Algiers, and form establishments for commerce as well as colonies—governed, perhaps, by the Prince of France."

The Journal du Commerce says, "All the speeches attributed to M. de Bourmont, both at Marseilles and at Toulon, are reduced to this, that we shall establish ourselves at Algiers after we have made the conquest of it."

Marseilles, May 9.—There is still much talk about the expressions that fell from the General in Chief, and these have much weight on account of his being a member of the Cabinet. The words of the Generals and other distinguished characters respecting the changes in politics likely to ensue on account of the health of the King of England, are likewise repeated.

Those conversations, and sayings, whether they be true, false, or misrepresented, give much uneasiness to commercial credit, by paralyzing the little business which still exists.

It must be supposed that we have an intention to establish ourselves in that country, as General Bourmont has given orders for the formation of a sanitary administration, the director of which is to be chosen amongst the secretaries of the sanitary intendency of this town, and the Minister of the Interior has confirmed this choice.

From the Messager des Chambres.

Toulon, May 10.—[Private Correspondence.]—A report is in circulation at Toulon, that an English frigate has forced her way into Algiers, to carry off the Consul of that power, whom the Dey will not suffer to depart.

From the London Courier.

We believe that the latest private accounts from Algiers are quite at variance with the statement in the French papers, that the Dey of Algiers had refused to permit our Consul to leave that city. We understand that the approaching indisposition of that gentleman's wife must have compelled them to continue at Algiers to a much later period than that at which the French papers represent the Dey's refusal to have taken place.

Toulon, May 2.—A little American cutter arrived in the roads, yesterday having on board a great number of persons, come expressly to see the preparations for the expedition.

Petersburgh, April 29.—A letter from Kisslar, in the Caucasus, of 13th March, says, that on the 12th inst. there had been a shock of an earthquake, which continued 10 seconds. The Armenians, seized with terror, hastened to prayers in the churches, the Tartars, with their Mallahs, went through the streets and collected alms for the purpose of buying sheep, to be distributed among the poor.—In the village of Andrejioska, two days journey from Kissgarth, the earthquake had been much more severe. The Armenian church and some mosques were thrown down, and above 400 of the inhabitants buried under the huts, the roofs of which are covered with earth. A mountain opened with great noise, and one half of it sunk considerably. This earthquake at Andrejioska lasted nine days.

Launch.—A remarkably fine ship, called the Carouge, of about 400 tons, built on the model of the New York packets, and intended we believe for the London Trade, was safely launched on Tuesday, from H. Atkinson, Esq's. yard, at Carouge.—She was built under the superintendence of Mr. Finch, jr. who has succeeded admirably in making a very substantial and beautiful vessel.

In the House of Lords, on Tuesday, the 18th, the Marquis of Londonderry moved for an explanation of the foreign policy of the Ministers in relation particularly to Greece. He thought the Turkish government had been most unmercifully treated, and that Great Britain had been hoodwinked by Russia on the one side, and by France on the other. The Earl of Aberdeen replied that the papers in question would be laid before Parliament on the Tuesday following, whereupon the motion of the Marquis was withdrawn.

The Duke of Newcastle presented a petition against allowing climbing boys to sweep chimneys.

As it respects the health of the King, the latest London Court Journal has put forth the following statement:—

"A short time back it was deemed necessary, that an intimation should be given to a great personage, of the very critical state in which he was, and of which he seemed to have no conception. A Cabinet was called, and after several members had declined the painful and hazardous office of breaking the intelligence to the Royal Patient, the Duke of W. came forward and undertook it. He went down to Windsor the same afternoon, (on a Saturday) and in as delicate a way as the subject admitted of, acquainted the Royal sufferer that his medical attendants had not felt justified in concealing from the Cabinet that there were alarming symptoms in his case. The Royal patient immediately replied with great temper and fortitude, "He was perfectly resigned to whatever Divine Providence might will: the only anxiety he felt was to be spared from any severe suffering, as bodily pain," he confessed, "was what he had through life dreaded, and been unable to support with patience." He added, "that he felt His Grace had discharged a most painful but indispensable duty in a manner for which he cordially thanked him."

Emigration.—The Newry Examiner, calculates the number of emigrants from the province of Ulster alone who will emigrate this summer for America, at from ten to fifteen thousand persons;—there is probably but little reliance to be placed in the statements of the journal we quote, respecting emigration and such matters, as it appears to be deeply imbued with the fallacies of Cobbett and other writers of that class who recommend emigration to the States, in preference to Canada or other British North American Colonies.

A report is in circulation that His Majesty's ship Rose, brought up several pirates from Anticosti.—This is not the case. An armed party belonging to the Rose landed on Anticosti, in conformity with instructions, to procure more correct particulars of the fate of the people belonging to the Granicus, wrecked there in the fall of 1828, and to ascertain if piratical establishments had been formed on any part of that island, but they saw nothing to warrant such a conclusion. Some Indians hunting there, and the residents at the Provision Posts, were the only persons met with.

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 9, 1830.

☞ River 3½ feet above low water, and rising slowly. 6 arrivals and 8 departures since our last.

Our readers will perceive, by an advertisement in another column of this day's paper, that Mr. Dickinson's flock of Merino Sheep will be sold, at Steubenville, on the 10th day of September next. This flock is admitted to be one of the best, if not the very best, in the United States.

THE STEAM BOAT GLEANER.—In a brief notice which we gave of this boat, a few days ago, we stated her draft of water to be seventeen and one half inches. We have since received information, upon which we rely, that her draft, with wood and water on board, does not exceed sixteen inches.

THE STEAM BOAT ALLEGHENY.—During the passage, on board this boat, to and from the place of celebration, on the 5th instant, we were gratified to perceive that Mr. Blanchard's plan of a boat for shallow water was highly approved by some of the most experienced steam boat captains and engineers belonging to the society of Snag Marines. We ourselves have had considerable experience in steam boat traveling, both on the eastern and western waters, and we do not hesitate to say, that this boat is, beyond comparison, more completely noiseless, and less agitated, while running, than any other steam boat we have ever traveled in. A very old and experienced steam boat captain concurs entirely with us in this opinion.

It gives us much pleasure to do justice to the mechanical ingenuity of Mr. Blanchard, who, we believe, is engaged in building another boat on the Connecticut river. The captain to whom we have above referred, thinks that the plan of the Allegheny is susceptible of many valuable improvements in the execution.

Our neighbor of the Democrat misapprehends us strangely, indeed. We never asserted that he was opposed to Internal Improvements: indeed, we knew not whether he had any opinion at all upon that subject. We condemned his gross adulation of the President, for throwing overboard the system of Internal Improvement. We have no doubt that he would, with equal readiness, have complimented the President, had he approved all the bills which he has rejected. If the editor of the Democrat really entertained constitutional doubts upon this question, we would respect those doubts; but from his own declaration, in his last paper, it appears that he is favorable to Internal Improvements; and yet he compliments the President for throwing them overboard.

Below we give an extract from the proceedings of the SNAG MARINES of Pittsburgh, which will greatly gratify every good citizen. The Snag Marines, being principally captains and other officers of steam boats, are the very class of citizens who have received the most immediate benefit from the genius of Fulton. They therefore very properly take the lead in this matter. All classes of our society have, however, received more or less benefit from the successful exertion of Mr. Fulton's talents; and from the plan adopted by the Snag Marines, all classes will have an opportunity to contribute their mite to his children.

Extract from the Minutes of the Proceedings of the Snag Marines of Pittsburgh, at a meeting held at Flour Island, in the City of Pittsburgh, on the 1st July, 1830:

Resolved, That each member of this society will use his exertions to have a box, with a suitable device, for the reception of contributions, placed in a conspicuous place in every Steam Boat on the western waters; and that the proceeds of the said box be regularly paid over, by the Captains of the respective boats, to the Treasurer of this Society, to be remitted by him to the heirs of Robert Fulton.

The SNAG MARINES celebrated the Anniversary of American Independence in that beautiful locust and walnut grove, situated on the bank of the Ohio River, about midway between the mouth of Chartiers Creek and M'Kee's Rocks. The party was conveyed to the ground by the steam boat Allegheny, and the day was spent in the utmost harmony. Captain THOMAS B. DAVIS acted as President of the day, and Captain WM. BAIRD as Vice-President.

VOLUNTEER TOASTS.

By James M'Kee. WASHINGTON—Who mainly aided in gaining us liberty and independence.—May we have wisdom enough to preserve and transmit them to posterity.

By A. M'N. Semple. The heirs of ROBERT FULTON—To them a father's legacy was penury and want. To us his ingenuity and enterprise have given the means of aggrandisement: since the snag of adversity has carried off the anchor of hope and thrown them from the current, down which they anticipated to glide smoothly—we cannot, as wholehearted mariners, permit them to wreck within a cable's reach, or while a copper can be called a Snag's. Dick Tanner.

By Robert Semple. The FEDERAL GOVERNMENT—Our national engine, put up by master workmen: while the smooth movements of her piston continue to give regularity to the different departments, and skilful engineers regulate the weight of government steam, we need not fear a severance of its well cemented parts. Thomas Elrod.

By John M'Kee. The Star-Spangled Banner—May the tyrants and bigots of the earth worship and fall down before it, and may Moses and the prophets forgive such breach of their commands. Adam Payne.

By J. W. Davis. SNAG MARINES—May they do all their running, without shivering plank or timber, and meet with no accident more serious than starting a butt. Thomas Tackaberry.

COURSE AND INFLUENCE OF THE COTTON TRADE.

A writer in the N. Y. American has these remarks and speculations on the fact mentioned in one of our late numbers—that three bags of Australian Cotton were lately sold in Liverpool market, and produced 11d. per lb. They are worthy of record for future observation, and to determine how far the anticipations expressed may be sanctioned by events.—N. Y. Atlas.

Three bags of cotton is indeed a trifling matter when placed against the hundreds of thousands annually imported into Liverpool from this country; but it may be the commencement of a flourishing commerce of far more importance to Great Britain than every stake held by her subjects in the gold and silver mines of South America.

It may appear almost incredible at this day, nevertheless it is true, that so lately as the year 1793, five bags of cotton from the United States of America were advertised in a Liverpool paper to be sold by public auction in three lots. There are those yet in active business in New York who remember when cotton was an article so little understood, that sea island and upland were offered at the same price; and when the late venerable and virtuous Jay made his celebrated treaty with Britain, he did not know that cotton was the produce of the States. What a striking contrast within the compass of less than half a century!—Five bags of American cotton, in the year 1793, to be sold in three lots—against near a million of bags annually exported from the United States.—Who shall say what the trade with New South Wales may become in a similar period? The article may be carried from that colony for less than what a few years since was considered a fair freight from New York.

Our own Tariff will give an impulse to the trade, and the price paid in Liverpool for the three bags, averaging 11d. per pound, shows that it is a superior article, and therefore a fitter substitute for our cottons than those of India.

There is another and a very important consideration, that must operate greatly in favor of the cotton of New South Wales. A numerous class in England are opposed to slavery whereever located, and they are indefatigable in their opposition. It is already intimated that to introduce and give a preference to articles raised by free laborers is the surest method which can be adopted to put an end to the evil. Cotton, therefore, from New South Wales will have a decided preference, and be eagerly sought after. It is not improbable that the cultivation of cotton in this colony, at some future day, may have an important bearing on the slave question in Britain and the United States.

The Boston Patriot states that Fuller, who recently robbed the U. S. Branch Bank in that city, accomplished the robbery in the following way:

"On Monday evening, he settled his accounts, and handed over to the Cashier his trunk, locked, and supposed to contain his balance of cash, which trunk was placed in the vault for safe keeping.—On Tuesday morning, he not appearing at the Bank at the usual hour, a message was sent to his house, to which it was replied that he was sick. His trunk was then opened to verify his cash account, when the sum above stated was found to be missing. Farther inquiry was then made, and it was soon ascertained that he had absconded. We have not heard that he has been seen since Monday evening at 9 o'clock. Every measure has been taken by the Branch Bank Directors, by expresses and otherwise, to spread the news of this bold and extensive villany.

"Fuller is of respectable connexions—and has a wife and interesting family of children in this city. He was considered a correct and accomplished clerk by those who employed him. Much excitement was produced by the circumstances above detailed, when made known."

Brookville, Jefferson County, Pa.—The spot selected by the commissioners, as the seat of justice for Jefferson county, and confirmed by the act of Assembly, passed at the last session, organizing that county, has lately been laid out in town and out lots,—bearing this name. At the sale which took place last week, town lots were sold from $30 to $300 each—The last day's sales averaged above $50, without including a mill seat, which sold for $1000. The proceeds of sale will, no doubt, be sufficient to build the Court House. This may be considered a high rate for lots, most of which still remain in a state of nature. But the advantages and prospects of this new county town attracted the attention of a crowd of strangers. Persons were known to be present from twelve neighboring counties.

The location of Brookville is a good one, and it has been judiciously laid out by Mr. Sloan, the artist. It is situated on the Susquehanna and Waterford turnpike, 44 miles east of Franklin, and immediately at the head of Redbank which is formed by the confluence of the three branches of Sandylick, at this point. Redbank has, in general, a sufficiency of water for steamboats on the Blanchard plan. The Allegheny could now visit Brookville, were it not for the obstructions created by a few mill dams. Brookville must become the place of deposit for the iron manufactured in the counties of Centre and Clearfield, designed for the Pittsburgh market. The lands in Jefferson county are of a much better quality than is generally supposed by those who have formed an estimate of their character by merely passing through the county, along the turnpike. Large bodies are exceedingly well adapted to the culture of small grain.—Should this village spring up as rapidly as it bids fair to do, it may be considered an acquisition to the interests of the Northern turnpike, and may give an impulse to business in the section of country in which it is located.—Crawford Messenger.

The population of Canada is estimated at five hundred thousand souls. It has doubled 8 times, according to the Quebec Gazette, in seventy-one years

VARIOUS MATTERS.

Wool.—We are glad to hear that the farmers are receiving an advance of from 5 to 10 cents per lb. on different qualities, compared with last year's prices of their wool—Full blood 50 cents—grade 37 to 44, inferior 34, &c. The "system," though yet under many difficulties, will accomplish wonders, if the south will permit the farmers in the north and the middle and the west to have a market for their productions.—Niles.

Latest from Colombia.—Capt. Briggs, of the schr. Waterloo, in 20 days from Carthagena, informs that news was brought by the Bogota mail, of June 9th, that the province of Tacames had declared itself independent of the government of Colombia. The English frigate Shannon, after waiting 10 days at Carthagena to receive the Liberator on board, HAS DEPARTED WITHOUT HIM, as we predicted it would. The pretext is that his passports had not arrived from Bogota. "It was supposed he would take passage in the first packet for England. Some, however, were of opinion, that he would not leave the country. He still remained at Turbaco, three leagues from Carthagena. A considerable number of troops had recently arrived at Carthagena from different quarters."

Strange Attempt at Murder!!—A few nights since, as one of the officers of the Customs of this District was about retiring to bed, in one of our public houses, he was alarmed by a report of a musket or pistol apparently very near him: the ball of which grazed his head—knocked him over, and put out his light. He hallooed murder! murder! lustily, which brought the landlord and others to his rescue. They could perceive no one in the room but the wounded man; neither could they smell powder, but he still vociferated that he was wounded, and called their attention to the blood that was trickling down his face. The assassin was at last discovered secreted in the bar-room, and proved to be a—ginger beer bottle, that, by the aid of a warm day, had worked its contents up to the desperate resolution of attempting the life of a worthy man It is needless to add that it was the cork that hit him, and what he supposed blood was the beer that so unceremoniously followed the cork.—Eastport paper.

E. I. Du Pont, Esq. has furnished a house, on the Brandywine, about four miles from Wilmington, Delaware, for a Sunday School, and two or three of his daughters superintend its progress.—The school has about 200 scholars.

Porter, the mail robber, was hung yesterday morning, conformably to his sentence. At about a quarter before ten o'clock, the procession moved from Arch street prison, headed by the high constable, and escorted by a detachment from the Navy Yard, of the marines, and by some hundred mounted citizens. The gallows was at Bush-hill—a short distance from the new penitentiary. At a quarter before eleven, the rope was tied, and the culprit soon ceased to breathe. Two clergymen were with him, reciting prayers. A vast crowd—including a great number of females—had assembled to witness this awful scene. A large proportion of them averted their heads when the fatal drop fell. Disturbance, and even an attempt to rescue, were apprehended before the execution, but no disorder of any kind took place. It is to be hoped that all public discussions concerning Porter's fate will cease; except so far as it may be held up as a warning to malefactors, or deemed to furnish an argument against the expediency of capital punishment in general.—National Gazette, July 3.

Tar for Sheep.—A gentleman who keeps a large flock of sheep, assures us that during the season of grazing he gives his sheep tar at the rate of a gill a day to every twenty sheep. He puts the tar in troughs, a little fine salt over it, and the sheep consume it eagerly. This preserves them from worms in the head, promotes their general growth, and is supposed to be a specific against the rot.—Western paper.

Experimenting.—A printer's apprentice at York was found dead in the press-room, hanging by the neck. It is presumed that he was making experiments in hanging, and carried the matter too far. He had stood upon the box to adjust the cord, and had placed a looking-glass opposite, so that he might see how he looked, it is supposed with, a cord round his neck.—Leeds Mer.

American Manufactures.—The brig Neponset which lately sailed from Boston for Calcutta, carried about 150 bales domestic cotton.

Durham Short Horns.—The Columbia Spy of Thursday last, in noticing the passage through that place of the lot of cattle purchased by C. A. Barnitz, Esq. of York, at Colonel Powel's sale, says "we are informed that one of the Cows, for which $410 were paid, yields cream for 24lbs of Butter per week."—Chambersburgh Repos.

We are glad to see that the death of Mrs. Hicks, from the bite of a snake on her face and breast, while lying in bed, which was announced on the authority of the Chillicothe Evening Post, is contradicted in a later number of the same paper.—Mrs. H. although very severely bitten, being now on the recovery.

The Quintessence of Epigram.—The following lines, said to have been scribbled on Bonner's tombstone by a Westminster scholar, have never been surpassed for concentrated bitterness!

If heaven be pleased when sinners cease to sin,
If hell be pleased when sinners enter in,
If earth be pleased whene'er it lose a knave,
Then all are pleased—for Bonner's in his grave."

The first duty of a Statesman is to build up the moral energy of a people. This is their first interest; and he who weakens it, inflicts an injury which no talent can repair; nor should any splendor of services, or any momentary success, avert from him the infamy which he has earned.—Let public men learn to think more reverently of their function. Let them feel that they are touching more vital interests than property. Let them fear nothing so much as to sap the moral convictions of a people, by unrighteous legislation, or a selfish policy. Let them cultivate in themselves the spirit of religion and virtue, as the first requisite to public station. Let no apparent advantage to the community, any more than to themselves, seduce them to the infraction of any moral law.—Let them put faith in virtue as the strength of nations. Let them not be disheartened by temporary ill success in upright exertion. Let them remember, that while they and their cotemporaries live but for a day, the state is to live for ages, and that Time, the unerring arbiter, will vindicate the wisdom as well as the magnanimity of the public man, who, confiding in the power of truth, justice, and philanthropy, asserts their claims, and reverently follows their monitions, amidst general disloyalty and corruption.—Channing.

ONE DAY LATER FROM ENGLAND.

By the ship Coral, at Boston, London papers have been received to May 20th, and Liverpool to the 21st. The following is the bulletin of the 19th, concerning the King's health.

Windsor Castle, May 19.

The King slept well last night. His Majesty's symptoms continue alleviated.

The correspondent of the Morning Herald of the 20th, says, that on the evening preceding the 19th, he conversed cheerfully with his attendants for some hours, and slept soundly through the night, until he was awoke by the workmen's bell at 6 o'clock in the morning—that on the following day the Duke of Wellington had an audience with the King, and remained with him nearly two hours.

The Court Circular of the 19th, says, "The King continues in an improving state, and we are at length gratified in being able to announce that hopes are entertained of his Majesty's restoration to a convalescent state.

The news of the dissolution of the French Chamber produced a slight depression of the funds in London.

A calamitous event has happened in the family of the King of Prussia. The third son of the King wounded one of the servants so severely, that he died in consequence. The ordinary courts cannot take cognizance of such a case. But the King had appointed a special commission to investigate the affair, and upon their report, an order in the Council will either acquit the Prince, or sentance him to punishment.

Married,

On the 5th instant, by the Rev. Doctor Herron, Cornelius Darragh, Esq. to Miss Mary Simpson, both of this city.

On the 15th ult. by the same, Mr. Wm. Harris, to Miss Lucinda Stewart, of this city.

In Philadelphia, on Sunday evening, the 27th ult. by the Rev. Mr. Tyng, Lieut. Frederick Augustus Neville, of the U. S. Navy, to Miss Ann Catharine, eldest daughter of Robert Kennedy, Esq. navy store keeper of that city.

Died,

At Charlestown, N. H. on Wednesday, 23d ult. Mr. JESSE WATTS, a soldier of the revolutionary war, aged 87—father of James G. Watts, late Editor and Proprietor of the Philadelphia United States' Gazette.

On the 19th ult. at St Marie, near Quebec, in Lower Canada, NOUVELLE BEAUCE JACQUES GAGNE, an aged yeoman, and MAGDALENE MORIN, his wife, both 77 years old. These two persons were born the same day, baptised the same day, made their first communion the same day, died, and were buried the same day.

WE the subscribers do certify, that we have used and examined a number of FILES, manufactured in this city, by S. BROADMEADOW & Co. out of their Steel; and we take pleasure in saying that they are equal to the best English Files, not cast steel; and whilst they are sold at the prices of the English Files of the same description, we will give them the preference.—We recommend the establishment to the patronage of the American manufacturer, mechanic, and merchant, in the full confidence, that it requires nothing but the support it deserves to flourish; and that the day is not distant, when we shall no longer be dependent on foreign trade for the best Files and Steel. It is scarcely necessary to remind any one, that nothing but good Steel can make good Files. The Steel from which these Files are made, is manufactured here, by S. Broadmeadow & Co. and is equal to English Blister Steel, and sold at 12 1-2 cents per pound. They also manufacture Common Steel, which is sold at 8 cents per pound.

RHEUMATIC PAINS.

LUMBAGO, swelling and weakness of the joints, sprains, pains in the back, swelled face, stiffness of neck, chilblains, gout, cramp, rheumatism, &c. are all speedily and effectually cured, by the use of Dr. Robertson's celebrated

GOUT AND RHEUMATIC DROPS.

By applying these drops agreeably to the directions, which is simply to rub well the parts affected two or three times a day—also in cases where it is necessary to take internally from ten to fifteen drops on a lump of sugar, they seldom or ever fail to perform the effect desired—viz: that of a permanent cure in a very short time.

For sale wholesale and retail at the proprietor's drug and family medicine warehouse. N. E. corner of Second and Race-streets, Philadelphia—and retailed by his agents, and every principal druggist and vender of medicines throughout the United States.
